

The image shows a light gray template for a curved object, possibly a lid or a piece of packaging. It features a dark gray line that follows the outer contour of the object, representing the area that will be visible on the final product. A red dotted line is drawn inside the dark gray line, forming a shape that is roughly rectangular but follows the curve of the object. This red dotted line indicates the area that should be filled with artwork. The text is centered within the template.
